Consent To Receive Information Electronically

Whether you're new here or already have an account with us, we need your consent to receive certain info from us electronically. From time to time we make changes to the info in this agreement, and depending on what those changes are, we may need to capture your consent again. If you prefer paper statements, providing your consent will not impact any settings on your accounts.

Your consent will apply to your Ally Bank deposit, Ally Credit Card, Ally Auto, Ally Home and Ally Invest accounts - or whichever combination of those you have with us, plus all disclosures, agreements and other documents relating to those accounts. You agree we may also obtain your electronic signature, which is legally the same as a handwritten signature.

To receive information electronically, you need: a device with an internet connection, an email address, a way to store these documents, and software to view and save PDF files. Once your account is open, you can update your email address online. We'll notify you of software or hardware changes that could prevent you from accessing or retaining these records.

You'll have the right to withdraw your consent anytime, at no charge. In most cases, withdrawing your consent means you'll lose online access to any Ally Bank deposit, Ally Credit Card, Ally Auto, Ally Home and Ally Invest accounts. We may also cancel scheduled transactions and you may only receive paper account statements. You can regain access to most of these accounts by logging in and giving consent again. Your Ally Invest account, however, will be restricted to transfer or liquidation only and closed.

You can call us if you ever want to withdraw your consent, or to request paper copies of digital documents, at no cost. Withdrawing your consent means you'll lose online access to your Ally Bank deposit, Ally Credit Card, or Ally Auto accounts, and scheduled transactions may be canceled. But know that you can log in and consent at any time and regain access to those accounts.

Request For Taxpayer Identification Number And Certification

Federal law requires us to have a record of your Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) and backup withholding status. If we have missing or incorrect information, we may need to withhold and pay the IRS 24% of the interest earned on your accounts.

Have you been notified by the IRS that you're currently subject to backup withholding because you failed to report all interest and dividends on your tax return?

☒ No
 ☐ Yes

Under penalties of perjury, I certify that

- the number shown on this form is my correct taxpayer identification number (or I am waiting for a number to be issued to me), and
- I am not subject to backup withholding because: (a) I am exempt from backup withholding, or (b) I have not been notified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that I am subject to backup withholding as a result of a failure to report all interest or dividends, or (c) the IRS has notified me that I am no longer subject to backup withholding, and
- I am a U.S. citizen or other U.S. person (including a U.S. resident alien), and
- I am exempt from Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act reporting.

Ally Bank doesn't collect Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA) exemption codes. We're required by law to include the aforementioned certifications, but note that number 4 doesn't apply.
